

Figure 2.9: Average bankfull depth and width (feet) as a function of drainage area (square miles) from field data collected in the Dry Creek Watershed in the Central Valley of California. The creeks drain the the foothills of the Sierra Nevada east of Sacramento and are tributary to the Natomas Main Drainage Canal.